South Perry Man Slain By Farm Tenant Who Ends Own Life

EVICTION ORDER LEADS TO DEATH OF EARL BRIGHT

Farmer-Mail Carrier Shot Twice By Jasper Pile, Ordered To Move

DISPUTE ENDS FATALLY

Pensioner Sits In Chair, Uses Poker To Fire .12 Gauge Gun

Verdict of murder and suicide was pronounced Friday evening by Sheriff Floyd Duffy of Hocking county in a double tragedy which hit the South Perry community about 3:30 in the afternoon.

Dead were:
Earl Stanley Bright, 56, widely known South Perry farmer and mail carrier, who was shot to death by a .12 gauge single barrel shotgun, and

Jasper Pile, 71, tenant on the Bright farm four miles southeast of Laurelvile, who killed Bright and then turned the shotgun on himself, killing himself instantly with a blast above the heart.

Mr. Bright, who operated the Star mail route between Logan and Laurelvile, was prominent in Hocking county. Several years ago he was a candidate for sheriff of Hocking county.

The shooting, Sheriff Duffy said, resulted from an eviction order served on Pile, a native of West Virginia, by Bright.

Bright, Duffy declared, had told Pile last Tuesday to leave the property which is on the Ridge road and is known as the Lou Wagner farm and which was inherited by Mr. and Mrs. Bright from Mrs. Bright's father. Pile had not left so Bright obtained an eviction order from a Logan court, and went to the farm Friday after he completed his mail route to serve it on the tenant.

Mrs. Maggie McGrady, Pile's housekeeper, told the sheriff that Pile had bought a quart of whisky Thursday and had just finished it before Bright appeared at the farm.

Shooting Near Barn

The farm owner served the eviction notice on Pile as the two stood near the barn, Bright having parked his car near a fender pile, some of which he had intended to take to a cow which he kept at his South Perry home.

Mr. Bright was accompanied to the farm by William Cave, a neighbor.

Pile walked into the house after receiving the eviction order, took his shotgun and put three shells in his pocket. He approached Bright from behind and shot him through the right shoulder from close range. The farm owner ran a few steps before Pile loaded the gun again and shot him at the base of the spine. Bright fell dead about 30 feet from where he was shot the first time.

Nazi Spy Told To Finish Organization In Brazil, Move To United States

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 28—Confession of a Nazi spy that he was ordered "to organize Brazil, then proceed to the United States and do likewise," and the declaration of a Brazilian military judge that Japan could muster an army of 30,000 men in Sao Paulo were the latest developments today in Brazil's campaign to crush axis espionage and sabotage.

The Nazi agent, sent to South America to direct espionage efforts, was Sweden-born Nils Christensen, a naturalized German citizen, who arrived in Brazil aboard the German steamer Hertha last April, bearing false papers identifying him as a Swedish naval officer.

Immediately on his arrival, Christensen went to Santos, where he erected the first Nazi clandestine radio station with the help of the German Consul Otto Weble, police said.

There he sent the German admiralty information on ship movements in the South Atlantic, authorities disclosed. When he found police becoming suspicious, he transferred his station to Rio De Janeiro, continuing to transmit news on ships which he received from Santos by a small Morse set.

Radio Expert Helps

Credit for exposing Christensen was given by police to Juvenal Sayon, Brazilian radio expert. Becoming suspicious last December, when he was requested to manufacture a certain radio part by a mysterious stranger who spoke perfect English and gave the name of Mendes, Sayon advised police. The authorities then launched an investigation which resulted in the downfall of Christensen and his gang.

The man giving the name of Mendes was later discovered to have been Christensen himself.

Christensen was so clever, police said, that he kept his identity a secret even to the agents working under him. None of the minor spies arrested knew their leader's name and authorities finally caught up with him only by intercepting correspondence addressed to the mysterious Mr. Mendes.

He has now confessed to being a high official in the German navy and a "graduate" of a special course in espionage work.

He told police that until he received sealed orders on the high seas he was ignorant of the fact that his destination was South America.

Among his belongings, police found a German naval code and microscopic pictures with secret instructions.

The declaration that Japan could muster an army of 30,000 in Sao Paulo and mobilize 500 trucks to transport it was made by Gen. Manoel Rabello, a supreme military court judge.

SENATORS MOVE TO REVEAL MORE CARTEL ABUSES

WASHINGTON, March 28—The Senate defense committee today revealed that the current investigation into the agreement between United States and German rubber interests will be expanded to include other international cartels believed to be hampering the war effort by restricting use of vital interests.

"We have already exposed agreements in aluminum, magnesium and rubber which restricted our preparations to defend the country, and the committee will go into every cartel which we encounter when we find that it restricts our war effort," said Sen. Henry Truman (D) Mo., committee chairman.

"There are other cartels also under investigation by the department of justice. The drug cartel is the worst of those we have not touched."

The committee Tuesday will hear officials of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey defend themselves against testimony of Assistant Attorney-General Thurman Arnold, who declared that an agreement between Standard and the I. G. Farbenindustrie, German chemical trust, slowed development of synthetic rubber production.

Chillicothe Attorney Told To Take Up Options On Ross County Land

Construction has been authorized for a $2,000,000 branch factory of National Fireworks, Inc., West Hanover, Mass., on a 1,500 acre tract in southeastern Ross county.

Announcement that the project was definitely under way came Friday after John P. Phillips Jr., Chillicothe attorney, received a long distance call from an official of the company, instructing him to take options on the plant site immediately, and to notify land owners that the options are to be closed.

Landowners who signed options include Edward Creakbaum, Louis Brown, R. Earl Miller, Clifford Ratcliff, Kenneth Walter, Guy Brown, Arthur F. Jones, Beatrice McBride of Boston, Mrs. George Gallagher, McClellan Neff, Edward Penisten, Jeanette Sullivan, John Seymour and Nelson Jones.

The site is bounded by the Lancaster road, Route 50, Walnut Creek road and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Under the options the company may lease lands of individual property owners for six years, or within that period may buy the tracts.

The plant, which will manufacture small caliber ammunition for the United States Navy, will employ 3,000 skilled workers, including 1,500 men and 1,500 women, according to H. B. King, plants production manager for the company.

The project is to include the construction of about 100 buildings, some large and some small, all of one-story construction with metal sides.

RED CROSS SAYS MORE FIRST AID CLASSES LIKELY

PICKAWAY COUNTY Red Cross workers are contributing generously to the war effort, it was indicated Friday when reports from Red Cross officials were made at a meeting in the office of Carl C. Leist, chapter chairman.

During the last six weeks production committees have turned out 72 overalls for children, as well as numerous sweaters and scarfs, Mrs. W. E. Caskey, committee chairman, reported. The finished products are being stored in Red Cross headquarters until shipment is ready.

The executive council of the Red Cross Friday discussed several policies to be adopted.

With much effort now being directed toward the families of soldiers, the council decided to ask assistance of the service organizations, whenever necessary, in providing for persons who need attention.

Several additional Red Cross classes may be set up in the county. Another course in first aid was discussed and plans were made to instruct civilian defense enrollees in first aid work.

Home nursing classes and first aid classes for high school seniors also were discussed, although no program was adopted.

In general, the Red Cross program during the summer months will be devoted largely to first aid classes and production work.

There will be no war fund drive for funds until Spring of 1943.

Corregidor Still Stands Despite Heavy Assaults

WASHINGTON, March 28—American-Philippine patrols have staged successful raids on Batan and Mindanao islands, the War department reported today as Corregidor island beat off an "almost continuous" aerial bombardment which caused only minor damage.

Japanese strategy apparently is aimed at knocking off Corregidor with a two-fold purpose. First, military observers believe that with the Philippine bastion subdued, Nipponese naval forces will be able to harass Wainwright's hardy defenders from the rear with withering fire from naval units and, second, the Japanese are sorely in need of a first-rate operating base such as Manila bay. Bases further to the South, it was pointed out, are now feeling the sting of United Nations bombers and are not necessarily tenable.

Yet the word from Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright is that Corregidor is holding out and that its batteries continue to dominate strategic Manila bay after 16 weeks of warfare in the far Pacific.

STRONG BRITISH FORCE SIGHTED OFF GOOD HOPE

This dispatch was sent from an enemy country, whose motive in releasing news is likely to be propaganda. Axis claims should be credited only when confirmed by American or Allied sources.

ROME, March 28—(By Official Italian Wireless)—A major British naval force yesterday passed the Cape of Good Hope, the southernmost tip of Africa, en route to the Indian ocean, the Italian radio declared today.

The powerful force was said to have included two large battleships, two aircraft carriers, several cruisers and a number of smaller units.

With the occupation of the Andaman and the Nicobar islands in recent days, Japanese warships have been appearing with increasing frequency in the Indian ocean. Other reports said that Japanese warships had been sighted near Rangoon.

Japanese submarines have been operating in the Indian ocean for some weeks.

KELLY'S WIDOW GOES TO WORK IN PLANE PLANT

BURBANK, Cal., March 28—Public life was behind Mrs. Colin Kelly, widow of the air hero, today as she turned to earning a livelihood for herself and her two-year-old son, Colin Jr.

She went to work as a secretary-stenographer in the industrial relations department of an aircraft equipment plant.

"I am glad," she said, "I can go to work in a factory where materials vital to our country's victory effort are being made."

Since her bomber pilot husband was shot down after first sinking the Japanese battleship Hara in the Philippines, Mrs. Kelly had traveled from coast to coast aiding in defense bond and Red Cross drives.

NEW YORK, March 28—Another Rockefeller is going to join the Army. David Rockefeller, 26, youngest of the five sons of John D. Getting word of an impending Nazi parachute troop invasion of the vital port of Murmansk to cut off United Nations supplies from reaching the Red army, the Russians beat the Germans to the punch by landing forces behind the German lines.

The Nazis tried to drive their new tormentors back into the sea with a furious assault by land and air, but before they could make much headway a Red army counter offensive was launched and the blows from front and rear threw the enemy into "vast confusion," the Moscow radio reported.

Outcome of the daring feat could not be definitely ascertained from front line reports this morning, but it was believed that the Soviet forces were more than holding their own.

Nazi Counter Balked

Along the rest of the vast front, furious fighting continued unabated, with the Russians still maintaining the upper hand and crushing all Nazi moves for a counter attack. Especially on the Smolensk front, the German counter attacking bids were repulsed with heavy losses, Moscow claimed.

In light of the terrific stand of the Chinese forces under U. S. Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell, close observers were convinced today that the battle for Toungoo may become the decisive episode in the fight for Burma.

New developments favorable to the allied cause were the arrival of reinforcements at a very opportune moment; the recapture of an airport previously lost eight miles north of Toungoo, and a straightening of the United Nations lines westward on the Irrawaddy river front.

Elsewhere, personalities, rather than actual developments, contributed the biggest news of the war.

In Melbourne, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters expected the arrival of Philippine President Manuel Quezon momentarily. Observers agreed that Quezon's safe trip from beleaguered Bataan to the island continent would be a mighty boost for Filipino morale as well as helping to bring more reinforcements.

Private Louis Wins Kayo In Sixth Over Abe Simon

18,220 Put $132,430 Into Pot, Most Of Which Goes To Army Relief Fund; Conn To Be Next?

By JACK MAHON

NEW YORK, March 28 — The only human flying fortress in America, Private Joe Louis, nursing only two slightly swollen knuckles and the memory of another great patriotic job well done, opined today he would belt out Billy Conn in June in the next defense of the world's heavyweight championship, and then, with the permission of his military superiors, take on Bicycle Bob Pastor for the third time, probably in Cleveland, later in the summer.

The greatest fighting man of his generation bombed huge Abe Simon into a bewildered and beaten hulk in 0:16 seconds of the sixth round of a scheduled fifteen rounder, a return match, for the benefit of the Army Emergency Relief society before 18,220 who paid $132,430.41 at Madison Square garden last night. And now he thinks he will continue to improve on his time with Conn—the next gentleman on the list of those unfortunates who escaped with their life in one joust with gentleman Joe but insist on coming back for more.

As the late Joe Jacobs so aptly put it—it would have been better for amputee Abraham Simon "had he stood in bed." He took one of the worst lacerations Louis ever handed out—and he has handed out some sadistic shellackings—in Detroit, just a year ago, and finally was pardoned in the 13th round as he lay helpless against the ropes.

That lesson wasn't enough, and, last night, he tried again. Floored twice, once for a count of two in the second and then for five in the fifth, Simon was granted reprieves, on both occasions, by the bell ending the round.

Stopped In Sixth

He went down for the third time from a barrage of blows to the jaw just after the sixth started and got to his feet just before Referee Eddie Josephs tolled "ten." There was no doubt Abe had completed the climb back but Josephs stopped the contest and called it a clean knockout. This saved Simon extra severe punishment and possible serious injury but only aroused the explosive wrath of James Joy Johnston, his vitriolic little manager. Three J stormed around screaming the referee had violated all the rules of the boxing commission.

Louis, asked about this in his dressing room, said: "If he was coming up at ten but was stopped, that was a matter of the referee's opinion. If he wanted it to continue, that would have been all right with me."

How about his return fight with Conn. Did he think he would flatten Billy in shorter order than he did last June, when he took 13 rounds to do the job.

Yes, I do, and if the fight goes according to the rules of my return fights, I will," answered the Bomber. "I certainly am going to try."

Joe said he had been granted a five day leave and would go, with his wife, to Chicago for a couple of days, visit his mother in Detroit and then return to Camp Upton, L. I., to resume his military duties.

Did he have any plans, beyond the Conn fight?

"I am in the Army now and can't speak about them like I would like to," answered Joe. Julian Black, one of his managers, said, however, if Joe got past Conn and received permission from the Army officials, he would most likely face Pastor in Cleveland's municipal stadium.

As for last night's bombardment, it was one of the most horrible Louis ever dished out. Simon, weighing 255½ to the champion's 207½, was a pitiful opponent. Abe was a giant target. Louis simply couldn't miss, and though, awkward, unable to punch to the head and absolutely unable to get away from Louis' lethal leather, was dead game and took a terrific beating before being stopped under somewhat peculiar circumstances by Referee Josephs.

He was right in front of this reporter and did get to his feet before ten was tolled. But Josephs would not allow him to continue.

It was just as well, for while his heart was as big as his body, Simon would have been very simple, indeed, to risk any more bombs from that master of human destruction, Joe Louis American.

ROD MUNDAY OF TOLEDO LEADS AT GREENSBORO

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 28—Paced by Rod Munday, an unheralded pro who equalled the course record with both left and right hand shots, a group of crack golfers today entered the second round of the $5,500 Greensboro open tournament.

Munday, of Toledo, O., breezed through the first round yesterday with a 66, five under par. He shifted from right-hand fairway shots to deadly left-hand putts at the cups.

Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, N. Y., and Jimmy Thompson, Del Monte, Calif., chalked up 67s. Lawson Little, Monterey, Calif., took a 68. Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., and defending champion Byron Nelson, Toledo, each shot 71.

Movie Magnate Harold Lloyd, also a partner in an Los Angeles bowling enterprise, made a personal appeal which was credited with swinging the delegates over to Los Angeles. Indianapolis was previously favored, but the vote stood:

Los Angeles 278, Indianapolis 154, San Francisco 64.

Buffalo, N. Y., was selected last year for the 1943 tournament.

Martin G. Unmacht of Dubuque, Ia., was elected president of the Congress at yesterday's closing business session. The selection followed the usual order of succession. Unmacht moving up from the first vice presidency.

Other vice presidents were moved up one notch, and Carl Haslanger of South Bend, Ind., was elected eighth vice president to fill the vacancy which this process created.

Shifting the scene back to the tournament itself, Walter Frey of Cleveland raced far into the lead in the all-events division with a 1964 nine-game aggregate—or an average of 218 per game.

The doubles again underwent the most drastic change of the minor events when three new duos appeared on the high ten standbards board with Harry Larsen and Gilbert Zook of Hinsdale, Ill., taking sixth place with 1287 to lead the way.

Walter Kolloff and Sid Baum of New York tallied 1277 for an eighth place while Chester Arnhorst and Joey Falcaro, also of New York, hit 1264 for tenth place.

NEW YORK, March 28 — An all-American Army football team is going to play at least ten games with members of the National Football League for the Army Emergency Relief fund, at the annual meeting of the football owners.

In addition, the league officials voted all receipts from post-season games during the "duration" would be turned over to the Army and Navy relief and indicated that several games may be scheduled with Navy teams.

The National league eligibility rule which forbids the signing of a college player before he is graduated came up again but the owners refused to make any change.

JOE WINS HONOR AS MAN OF WEEK IN SPORT WORLD

By International News Service
There can be but one man of the week in sports this week—or any one week—when Joe Louis is back in the headlines. And there is more to it than the mere fact that he fought Abe Simon last night free of charge, then went on back to camp today to resume his place as Private Joe Louis Barrow.

Louis laid out close to $2,500, or promoter Mike Jacobs' own estimate, for tickets, which he gave to his soldier buddies mostly, to enable them to see him defend his championship for nothing.

He uncomplainingly trained for the fight under the strangest of conditions—far from his customary camp at Greenwood Lake, N. Y., far up in the quiet hills. At Fort Dix he was in the midst of the 24-hour a day activity prevalent at an Army camp, sometimes had his sleep broken, put in his drill period daily and to top it all went into the ring without his trainer, Jack Blackburn, who lay ill at Chicago. Blackburn had been in his corner for every fight since before he turned professional.

Louis accepted the conditions as part of the times, trained faithfully under necessary impositions never before faced by a fighter with so much at stake.

"I ain't fighting for nothin'; I'm fighting for my country — you can't be choosy about things in times like these—I hope I don't let anybody down—I'll do whatever they want me to do any time they tell me."

GREAT MAN O' WAR OBSERVES 25TH BIRTHDAY

Birthday party: Owner Samuel D. Riddle

Winning Withers in 1920 in record time

Man O' War . . . the king

"Big Red," that's Man O' War, considered by many turfmen to be the greatest thoroughbred ever bred in America, is 25 years old March 29 and once again rules as "King for a day" at Lexington, Ky., where he has been in stud for many years. Man O' War, son of Fair Play-Mahubah, was born in 1917. Purchased for $5,000 as a yearling at the Saratoga auction by Samuel D. Riddle, "Big Red" became one of the turf's greatest campaigners, winning 20 of 21 races in 1919-20, his two great years as a competitor as a two and three-year-old. Man O' War was not nominated for the Derby in 1919 but he did beat the Kentucky Derby winner, Sir Barton, in a $50,000 match race in 1920. Man O' War's earnings for the two years of racing totaled $249,465. He set five records in 1920. In the Lawrence, Dwyer, Belmont, Jockey Club and Lawrence Realization stakes races that year. In the Lawrence, Man O' War was the shortest-priced favorite of all time, the odds being one to 100. Man O' War has sired many great horses, including two Kentucky Derby winners, Clyde Van Dusen, winner in 1929, and War Admiral, winner in 1937.

OHIO 'A' FIVES MEET AT KENT

Akron North, Xenia, Toledo Catholic And Canton Lehman In Semis

KENT, O. March 27—Four Ohio basketball teams, all that are left of a large contingent that started district competition three weeks ago, meet this afternoon to qualify two of their number for the state finals to be played tonight on Kent State university court.

Favored by tournament promoters are Akron North and Xenia Central, both of whom possess splendid season's records.

Akron, led by Lu Hosfield, and already boasting two state titles, takes on Toledo Central Catholic in one of the games this afternoon, and Xenia, with man for man the same team that lost a thrilling semi-final game to Martins Ferry last year in the state tournament, plays Canton Lehman.

The winners tangle tonight.

CAPITAL U. HAS MANY GRID LETTERMEN BACK

In the professional sports world, the hot-stove league takes up where basketball leaves off to keep Gus Phan in the sports stride the year 'round. In colleges the lull between basketball and baseball is filled with the thud of kicking a football and the thrill of learning new plays to spring on gridiron opponents next fall.

Though Capital university, Columbus, fans are still amusing themselves with tales of the recent cage conquests, (14 wins in 15 starts; highest scoring team in the state), spring football practice has been progressing. Thirty-three candidates were working out with Coach Paul Davidson each day in an effort to keep in shape for the six-months hence campaign.

Stanford was a slight favorite to carry off the NCAA title, chiefly because of a height advantage enjoyed by the Pacific coast athletes. Dartmouth, however, has won 22 of 25 games this season and was favored by many to win tonight.

Private Louis Wins Kayo In Sixth Over Abe Simon

18,220 Put $132,430 Into Pot, Most Of Which Goes To Army Relief Fund; Conn To Be Next?

By JACK MAHON

NEW YORK, March 28 — The only human flying fortress in America, Private Joe Louis, nursing only two slightly swollen knuckles and the memory of another great patriotic job well done, opined today he would beat out Billy Conn in June in the next defense of the world's heavyweight championship, and then, with the permission of his military superiors, take on Bicycle Bob Pastor for the third time, probably in Cleveland, later in the summer.

The greatest fighting man of his generation bombed huge Abe Simon into a bewildered and beaten hulk in 0:16 seconds of the sixth round of a scheduled fifteen rounder, a return match, for the benefit of the Army Emergency Relief society before 18,220 who paid $132,430.41 at Madison Square garden last night. And now he thinks he will continue to improve on his time with Conn—the next gentleman on the list of those unfortunate who escaped with their life in one joust with gentleman Joe but insist on coming back for more.

As the late Joe Jacobs so aptly put it—it would have been better for ample Abraham Simon "had he stood in bed." He took one of the worst lacings Louis ever handed out—and he has handed out some sadistic shellackings—in Detroit, just a year ago, and finally was pardoned in the 13th round as he lay helpless against the ropes.

That lesson wasn't enough, and last night, he tried again. Floored twice, once for a count of two in the second and then for five in the fifth, Simon was granted reprieves, on both occasions, by the bell ending the round.

Stopped In Sixth

Referee Eddie Josephs tolled "ten." There was no doubt Abe had completed the climb back but Josephs stopped the contest and called it a clean knockout. This saved Simon extra severe punishment and possible serious injury but only aroused the explosive wrath of James Joy Johnston, his vitriolic little manager. Three J stormed around screaming the referee had violated all the rules of the boxing commission.

Louis, asked about this in his dressing room, said: "If he was coming up at ten but was stopped, that was a matter of the referee's opinion. If he wanted it to continue, that would have been all right with me."

How about his return fight with Conn. Did he think he would flatten Billy in shorter order than he did last June, when he took 13 rounds to do the job.

Yes, I do, and if the fight goes according to the rules of my return fights, I will," answered the Bomber. "I certainly am going to try."

Joe said he had been granted a five day leave and would go, with his wife, to Chicago for a couple of days, visit his mother in Detroit and then return to Camp Upton, L. I., to resume his military duties.

Did he have any plans, beyond the Conn fight?

"I am in the Army now and can't speak about them like I would like to," answered Joe. Julian Black, one of his managers, said, however, if Joe got past Conn and received permission from the Army officials, he would most likely face Pastor in Cleveland's municipal stadium.

Creation of the Army team was disclosed by Lt. Col. Curtis Mitchell, presenting the Army Relief fund, at the annual meeting of the football owners.

Transfigured Christ Meets Human Need ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matt. 17:1-20; Mark 9:2-29; Luke 9:28-43.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Peter, James and John saw the Lord transfigured on the mountain, and were afraid. Coming down from the mountain Jesus told the three men to tell no one of what they had seen.

Many people met Jesus and His three apostles as they approached the town, and among them a man who fell on his knees before the Lord, praying Him to cure his son possessed of a demon.

The evil spirit, he said, sometimes made the child fall into fire and water, and the disciples could not exorcise it. Jesus drove the demon from the child and gave him to his father.

The disciples asked why it was that they could not drive the evil spirit out of the child, and Jesus answered that it was because they had no faith. (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 9:43)

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

3-28

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 29 is Matt. 17:1-20; Mark 9:2-29; Luke 9:28-43; the Golden Text being Luke 9:43, "And they were all astonished at the majesty of God.")

JESUS TOOK His three favorite apostles, Peter, John and James, and went up into a mountain to commune with God His Father. The mountain is thought to be Mt. Hermon, which is 10,000 feet high and whose name means "lofty mountain." It is within six days' reach of Caesarea Philippi, where they were in last week's lesson.

The disciples were weary and rested, but if they slept they were awakened and saw the transfiguration of the Master. His face did shine as the sun, and His raiment was white as light." St. Matthew tells us, "With Him, talking with Him, were Moses and Elijah.

When the prophets vanished and they were alone with Jesus, Peter made a foolish remark; he said: "Lord, it is good for us to be here: if Thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for Thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias." Tabernacles were little booths or huts made of branches. While Peter was speaking a bright cloud shadowed them, and a voice out of the cloud said, "This is My beloved Son, in Whom I am well pleased; hear ye Him."

At that the disciples were frightened and fell on their faces, but Jesus touched them and said, "Arise, and be not afraid." Before Jesus was suffering and death, it must have strengthened Him in his hard way to have this glimpse that His Father was with Him and that glory awaited Him.

We must be strong in our faith in Jesus and His goodness; and not only that, but we must, through Him, have faith in ourselves, that we will be given the strength to carry on and to remove the terror and fear that lies over the world, and help to make it a better one, fit for Jesus and His Father, God, to rule over forever and ever.

GADGET PROSPERITY

THE industrial region of northern Ohio, jammed with war work, turns up a startling case of excessive profits. A factory making airplane gadgets, and financed by the government, has been paying huge salaries and dividends, and sloshing money around like a crew of drunken sailors. It was done for the sake of "building morale."

The generosity of that outfit is amazing, even in a time of easy money and war orders. A woman secretary who normally might earn $2,000 a year drew $39,000 last year and added $18,000 in the first ten weeks of this year. The big boss and his sons rated $100,000 a year in salaries, with dividends to match.

The generosity extended to the workers in the plant, with big bonuses and insurance policies and everything, and a swell banquet every little while. They certainly did things in style. There wasn't a stingy guy in that institution.

The only trouble was, as Washington authorities have now explained to the industrial playboys, that they were really doing all this with government money, by the easy process of charging Uncle Sam enough for his gadgets to pay them 100 percent profit.

Apparently it wasn't criminal. All the government can do is to crack down on those individuals and prices, turning the proprietor's manufacturing efficiency to its own advantage. As for the proprietor himself, a former organizer for the machinists' union, he just smiles. It's all in the game.

TALL CHILDREN

IF YOUR son is taller than you, that's not news. Everybody's son is stronger, taller and heavier than his father at a corresponding age. So report members of the physical education department of Yale university, who for years have been keeping figures on the undergraduates.

The figures are certainly startling. Of the last class studied, no less than 22 percent, or almost one quarter, were six-footers. 1883, when the records began, only four percent of the class were six feet tall. Last year's freshman class at Yale averaged five feet ten inches in height, as against five feet seven in 1883. Their weight has increased from 137 pounds to 151.

Dartmouth has like figures, and it is said that the same development has been found in the women's colleges.

So for our sons and daughters we should not talk of the good old days. As far as their physical condition is concerned, these are the good new days. And the new development is particularly encouraging to the men in charge of our fighting forces.

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

NELSON QUIETS CHARGES

WAshington — Listeners who heard War Production Chief Donald Nelson's latest broadcast may have wondered why he went to such pains to defend his plan for joint management-labor committees to increase production in war plants. There was a very good reason.

For several days before, Nelson was deluged with letters and long distance calls from business men expressing great concern that his plan would "sovietize" U. S. industry.

One of the telephoners, a nationally known auto manufacturer whom Nelson has known for many years, approached the matter this way: "Of course, Don, I know there isn't anything to it, but the story is going around that this joint committee plan of yours is for the purpose of giving labor a voice in management and is a first step toward 'sovietizing' industry. As I said, personally, I know that isn't so. But that's what is being said and I thought you ought to know about it."

Not even remotely a leftist, Nelson was dumbfounded. His plan has nothing to do in any manner with plant management. Its sole purpose is to provide a handy channel for the consideration of suggestions to step up production.

Studying the letters and telephone calls, Nelson was struck by the similarity of their story. So he came to the conclusion that the rumors were being "planted" from one or more sources for the deliberate purpose of discrediting his plan and forcing him to abandon it.

Nelson called in government sleuths. Their investigation is still incomplete. But they have definitely located one source of this rumor-mongering.

It is a former official of a big business organization now employed in the Navy Department as the aide of a former Wall street banker with extensive industrial connections.

Note: Secretly, Navy brasshats were vigorously opposed to Nelson's plan, insisted that the committee consist only of management representatives. But the brasshats backed down when Nelson threatened to take the matter to the President.

LOCKED WHITE HOUSE GATES

At the tightly locked White House gates on Pennsylvania Avenue, police stopped a long black limousine this week.

"Who do you want to see?"

"Harry Hopkins."

"Got an appointment?"

"Yes."

"Got a pass?"

The visitors brought forth various credentials which were examined elaborately. Then police held a protracted telephone conversation with the White House. Finally the gates swung open and the guards admitted the two suspect characters who have more need for haste than any other two men in Washington. For

DIET AND HEALTH

Risk From Inhaling Solids Lessened by Modern Skill

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

I HAVE JUST been consulting with a friend whose child had the dreadful experience of inhaling a safety pin into the windpipe. It was several weeks before this was discovered or suspected. With modern instruments and skill it is possible to remove these foreign bodies with ease in a way which would have been impossible thirty years ago.

Dr. Clednening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The astonishing thing about the case and the great lesson about all such accidents is that the child had no idea whatever that the safety pin had passed into the glottis. There was no choking or gagging. It simply slid down past the vocal cords and lodged in the windpipe.

The modern general practitioner must be on the alert for the symptoms of foreign bodies in the bronchial tubes and be able to make the diagnosis at an early moment so that our modern, effective treatment can be instituted. The first thing he should learn is that in about one-half the cases there is no recollection as to when the foreign body was inhaled.

I knew a man who harbored an atomizer tip in his bronchial tube for nearly a year and only by searching his memory could he remember that there was a time when he discovered a tip missing from the bathroom closet.

These patients usually go to a general practitioner with symptoms of bronchitis, coughing, asthma, profuse expectoration from irritation which the foreign body sets up, and the knowledge is becoming widespread that under these circumstances a foreign body should always be suspected and examination instituted with the X-ray or the bronchoscope.

The second terrible lesson of the case is that the child held the safety pin in its mouth in imitation of its mother. The great army of those who hold foreign bodies in their mouths should be demobilized. This includes mothers and nurses attending infants during the diaper period, dressmakers, toothpick chewers, etc., etc.

Child Should Be Trained

Nearly half the cases of foreign body inspiration are in children under three years of age. This also holds a lesson in prevention. A child can be trained not to put small objects in its mouth.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clednening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by mail. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. Send a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clednening, in care of this paper. These pamphlets are "The Proper Feeding Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes, Venereal Hygiene and the Care of the Hair and Skin".

Check the play yard for small objects before allowing the baby to play there. Do not rush for a child with a foreign body in its mouth. Calmly ask the child for the object. Do not hold a child upside down to shake out a foreign body from the windpipe.

Statistics show that all patients who inspired pieces of toys and jewelry had done so in childhood, under one and one-half years of age. The lesson is to keep small objects out of reach of children. They are just as contented to play with large objects.

Inhalation of bones and hard food remnants is rare in children, but wearers of false dentures stand very high in the percentage list of such accidents.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. B. C.:—There is a mechanical apparatus resembling a small gas mask to be worn over the nose to prevent hay fever. Is this an effective preventive of hay fever?

Answer: The pollens of hay fever get in through the eyes in larger numbers than in the nose and unless your device covers the eyes also, it is of no value.

CHAPTER THIRTY

ANETTE'S FIRST thought was the same as that of every wife in similar circumstances. "That awful, awful girl!" And then her heart cried out with conviction, "But it isn't just Lois. This time it is Larry, too. It's different. What shall I do?"

She wanted to wring her hands and pace the floor, like a stock-company heroine. She wanted to confront them and beat them. She wanted to scream and weep. She wanted to do so many uncivilized things. Instead, she walked to a serving table and poured herself a drink of port, with hands so steady that she could not believe they were her own. The wine steadied her so that she was able to smile quite naturally when James Lyndon stepped from a group of young men and asked her to dance.

Larry saw her the minute he stepped back through the door, a vision in a new spellbinder of a dress, a floating affair of palest, frailest pink silk marquise, trimmed with wide bands of jet-black lace. Over the white-coated shoulder of her partner, Anette saw her husband and wondered where Lois was. Mending her lipstick, no doubt. The thought was like a lance in her throat.

Beneath heavily fringed lashes, she watched Larry approach, weaving between the couples, with definite purpose. He tapped her companion's arm. "Do you mind? I've scarcely seen my wife all evening."

The girl sank into the actor's arms and they moved along in steps so gloriously compatible that she found herself wishing she need never dance with anyone else. She put her temple against his chin and dropped gardenia-white eyelids against the moisture in her eyes.

GADGET PROSPERITY

THE industrial region of northern Ohio, jammed with war work, turns up a startling case of excessive profits. A factory making airplane gadgets, and financed by the government, has been paying huge salaries and dividends, and sloshing money around like a crew of drunken sailors. It was done for the sake of "building morale."

The generosity of that outfit is amazing, even in a time of easy money and war orders. A woman secretary who normally might earn $2,000 a year drew $39,000 last year and added $18,000 in the first ten weeks of this year. The big boss and his sons rated $100,000 a year in salaries, with dividends to match.

The generosity extended to the workers in the plant, with big bonuses and insurance policies and everything, and a swell banquet every little while. They certainly did things in style. There wasn't a stingy guy in that institution.

The only trouble was, as Washington authorities have now explained to the industrial playboys, that they were really doing all this with government money, by the easy process of charging Uncle Sam enough for his gadgets to pay them 100 percent profit.

Apparently it wasn't criminal. All the government can do is to crack down on those individuals and prices, turning the proprietor's manufacturing efficiency to its own advantage. As for the proprietor himself, a former organizer for the machinists' union, he just smiles. It's all in the game.

TALL CHILDREN

IF YOUR son is taller than you, that's not news. Everybody's son is stronger, taller and heavier than his father at a corresponding age. So report members of the physical education department of Yale university, who for years have been keeping figures on the undergraduates.

The figures are certainly startling. Of the last class studied, no less than 22 percent, or almost one quarter, were six-footers. 1883, when the records began, only four percent of the class were six feet tall. Last year's freshman class at Yale averaged five feet ten inches in height, as against five feet seven in 1883. Their weight has increased from 137 pounds to 151.

Dartmouth has like figures, and it is said that the same development has been found in the women's colleges.

So for our sons and daughters we should not talk of the good old days. As far as their physical condition is concerned, these are the good new days. And the new development is particularly encouraging to the men in charge of our fighting forces.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

NELSON QUIETS CHARGES

WASHINGTON — Listeners who heard War Production Chief Donald Nelson's latest broadcast may have wondered why he went to such pains to defend his plan for joint management-labor committees to increase production in war plants. There was a very good reason.

For several days before, Nelson was deluged with letters and long distance calls from business men expressing great concern that his plan would "sovietize" U.S. industry.

One of the telephoners a nationally known auto manufacturer whom Nelson has known for many years, approached the matter this way: "Of course, Don, I know there isn't anything to it, but the story is going around that this joint committee plan of yours is for the purpose of giving labor a voice in management and is a first step toward 'sovietizing' industry. As I said, personally, I know that isn't so. But that's what is being said and I thought you ought to know about it."

Not even remotely a leftist, Nelson was dumbfounded. His plan has nothing to do in any manner with plant management. Its sole purpose is to provide a handy channel for the consideration of suggestions to step up production.

Studying the letters and telephone calls, Nelson was struck by the similarity of their story. So he came to the conclusion that the rumors were being "planted" from one or more sources for the deliberate purpose of discrediting his plan and forcing him to abandon it.

Nelson called in government sleuths. Their investigation is still incomplete. But they have definitely located one source of this rumor-mongering.

It is a former official of a big business organization now employed in the Navy Department as the aide of a former Wall street banker with extensive industrial connections.

Note: Secretly, Navy brasshats were vigorously opposed to Nelson's plan, insisted that the committee consist only of management representatives. But the brasshats backed down when Nelson threatened to take the matter to the President.

LOCKED WHITE HOUSE GATES

At the tightly locked White House gates on Pennsylvania Avenue, police stopped a long black limousine this week.

"Who do you want to see?"

"Harry Hopkins."

"Got an appointment?"

"Yes."

"Got a pass?"

The visitors brought forth various credentials which were examined elaborately. Then police held a protracted telephone conversation with the White House. Finally the gates swung open and the guards admitted the two suspect characters who have more need for haste than any other two men in Washington. For

In the Philippines we have seen some thing of the problems presented by the multitude of races of varying languages and civilizations. Our problems, however, are nothing to those presented by India.

A ninety-year-old Kansas City woman has wisdom for all of us. "Go while you can," she says, "you can always do the dishes later."

Victory Gardens getting under way. Many radish, onion and lettuce seed already in the ground. Many acres of peas planted in the district. Some farmers wonder where they will get help for the harvest and canners wondering where they will get help for the pack. There goes Bud Harden off for the country to demonstrate his Ford tractor. Took up the line when the government shut off his Chevrolet business, and is doing quite well.

Do those of you who have more than the necessary current supply of sugar know that when you receive your ration card you will be required to declare the amount you have on hand? And that if you don't make the declaration the news is certain to get around. And if you are caught Uncle Sam will be mighty rough with you? Better think it over.

Carl Hunter, my morning coffee companion, continues to show improvement in an illness that confines him to his home. Miss him quite a bit. Chatted with Ned Dresbach and Bob Adkins, both county employees, who are soon to go into the Army. Bob dropped in with two guns he wishes to sell, a .38 revolver and a .22 automatic rifle. Confident the government will provide him with what arms he may be required to use.

An election coming up in the Fall and as yet no indication of the candidates other than Happy Claypool, the congressman. Bill Radcliff, Forest Short and Ed Wright, the three Republican office holders, remain mum as to intentions. Considerable talk that Bill will seek the congressional nomination.

Chatted with Clarence Herring as his crew completed the street repair job in front of the plant. Should stick this time, for the concrete foundation was given sufficient time to harden. Wonder what causes that frequent sink? Some say a creek formerly ran there.

Another hero of the week will be the Easter parader who does his finery without benefit of the forbidden weather forecast.

DIET AND HEALTH

Risk From Inhaling Solids Lessened by Modern Skill

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I HAVE JUST been consulting with a friend whose child had the dreadful experience of inhaling a safety pin into the windpipe. It was several weeks before this was discovered or suspected. With modern instruments and skill it is possible to remove these foreign bodies with ease in a way which would have been impossible thirty years ago.

The astonishing thing about the case and the great lesson about all such accidents is that the child had no idea whatever that the safety pin had passed into the glottis. There was no choking or gagging. It simply slid down past the vocal cords and lodged in the windpipe.

The modern general practitioner must be on the alert for the symptoms of foreign bodies in the bronchial tubes and be able to make the diagnosis at an early moment so that our modern, effective treatment can be instituted. The first thing he should learn is that in about one-half the cases there is no recollection as to when the foreign body was inhaled. I knew a man who harbored an atomizer tip in his bronchial tube for nearly a year and only by searching his memory could he remember that there was a time when he discovered a tip missing from the windpipe.

Statistics show that all patients who inspired pieces of toys and jewelry had done so in childhood, under one and one-half years of age. The lesson is to keep small objects out of reach of children. They are just as contented to play with large objects.

Inhalation of bones and hard food remnants is rare in children, but wearers of false dentures stand very high in the percentage list of such accidents.

The most dangerous form of foreign body inhalation is that of peanut shells, parts of peanuts or other nuts. In fact, all vegetable foreign substances cause the most severe reactions in the trachea and the bronchial tubes.

Statistics show that all patients

EDITORIAL

Over The Hills Into California!

We have all started on the long and tedious trip over Mt. Peace.
We have been told of our own sacrifices and tasks but too few of us have realized the true nature of our work. It is true that our prime and initial step is to put down the Axis, but let us not forget that the car must last after we reach the top of the first hill.

Yes we are living in a faster and more uncertain world. We must produce! But may heaven help our democratic world if some odd one hundred and thirty million people forget everything but war and production. Too many of us are tempted to give up all our former tasks and assume this one important job. Instead, we must accept this as an additional burden and work harder and longer to maintain our important background of education, religion, and all other foundations of democracy.

Your son, yes, and even your daughter are now faced with a great temptation. It is only natural that defense industries with their huge payrolls cause them some trouble. Debates in their minds as to whether they should quit their education and take their place alongside other patriots.

Parents, this is your job! Keep that child in school and keep those schools open! After the smoke of battle clears comes the immediate job of reconstruction—unemployment, stabilizing our economic structure, renewing inventions for home convenience, sanitation and health (serums, operations and the like) and thousands of other jobs that will demand a supply of intelligent citizens. The citizens will be the generation of tomorrow so safeguard your old age by preserving education.

Then, too, with our seven day week and fast machinery we shall all be tempted away from religion —the one thing without which nothing can stand. I did not tell you again why religion is so essential in any life, I can but advise you to safeguard its presence because there is a time coming when we shall all look to the church for much needed help.

I, too, will shout from the bottom of my heart "Remember Pearl Harbor" and instantly a feeling of revenge, of war and of patriotism springs throughout me; but, at the same time, I realize that there is another and equally important job to be kept up on the home defense front—protecting today and building for protection tomorrow!

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Eighty-five were present for the Student Council party Friday in the Ashville school auditorium, the delightful affair being the third of a series of four sponsored by the group during the school year.

Planned as a "hard times" party, the guests came dressed in odd costumes of cast-off clothing, much hilarity being added to the occasion by the amusing outfits.

An evening of progressive games of various kinds was concluded with delicious refreshments. High score in the games was held by Miss Louella Counts and second, by Walter Bevins.

The council includes Miss Jane Bligley, president; Miss Irma Bowers, Miss Viola Berger and Eugene Wilson of the senior class; Miss Virginia Vause, Miss Joan Tosca and Miss Wilma Smith, juniors; Miss Helen Irwin and George McDowell, sophomores, and Fred Puckett, freshman.

Miss Helen Bowers, Dick Carter and C. E. Mahaffey of the school faculty are council advisers. All teachers of the school were asked to the affair in addition to the students.

Mrs. F. K. Blair won first prize in the cake contest held Friday at the meeting of Washington grange in the Washington school auditorium. Mrs. Ray Bowman won second prize; Mrs. Lawrence Warner, third, and Mrs. Boyd Stout, fourth, in the 13 entries.

The program in charge of Miss Ethyl May, lecturer, was on the "home", opening with a pageant, "Home-Makers at the Wheel". Miss Mildred Wertman served as reader and the musical program was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph DeLong and Miss Dorothy Glick. The cast included Miss Ethel Brobst, Mrs. Leslie Spangler, Mrs. Mae Groce, Mrs. J. W. Bolender, Mrs. Walter Leist, Mrs. LeRoy May and Mrs. Turney Glick.

"The Influence of an Attractive Home" was the theme discussed by Lawrence Warner; Mrs. Minnie Newton read a poem, "When Grannie brought the Water Up." The four prize-winning cakes were sold after the contest and the money added to the student loan fund of the grange. The others were cut and served with the dessert course, after the program.

It was announced that there would be an exchange of flower seeds and plants between the women of the grange at the next meeting.

Miss Nellie Bolender, chairman of the Home Economics committee of the grange, and Mrs. Warner, chairman of the grange hospitality committee, served lunch to and a first aid team from Chillicothe demonstrated its work during the latter part of the evening.

Shortage Feared To Prevail In Pickaway County Area; Tin To Be Supplied

PEAS TO BE HANDLED FIRST

Winorr And Crites Companies Ready; About 2,000 Acres Under Contract

For the first time in 25 years, Pickaway county farmers and local canners must plan their harvest season this year to fit a wartime economy.

Farmers and canners alike will be faced with certain shortages, both in labor and materials, as a result of the war, although local farm officials feel that the labor shortage will be the more serious, both to canners and farmers.

Pickaway county fields already are being prepared for the 1942 pea crop, and planting will start within the next few days if the weather is favorable. It is estimated that 2,000 acres of peas will be planted in the county this year, although the labor shortage may force some farmers to reduce their acreage.

This year are not classed as a depleting crop by the government's AAA conservation program, which means that after a farmer has complied with his special allotments and planted twenty percent of his land to soil conserving crops, he may plant whatever vegetable crops he desires on the rest of his farm land. Special allotments are effective on corn, wheat, tobacco and potatoes.

The Winorr cannery company of Circleville and the Crites plant at Ashville will be the two local firms handling the pea crop. Other Circleville cannery, the Esmeralda cannery company, will no peas but will be prepared for the sweet corn crop.

Local canners expect no particular difficulty in obtaining cans this year even though there is a scarcity of tin due to the war.

John G. Boggs, War Board chairman, reported Saturday cans would be available for the canning season.

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, March 28

WHILE THERE may be much activity and enterprise on this day it is likely that the personal functions and interests will be uppermost, with prosaic and business objectives relegated to the background, although these are under favorable rule for constructive work if energy and practical efforts be turned in this direction.

Friendship or some social influence might be of benefit here.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and eventful year, with much progress and fulfilled ambitions both in business and private life. The former is under good auguries for expansion and energetic exploits if application and industry be aggressively employed. The social or friendly aspect may be utilized for furthering objectives. The major attention may be centered, however, on domestic, social, affectional or other personal or intimate associations.

A child born on this day should be bold, keen, courageous, energetic and ambitious, with friendship, popularity, and good fellowship holding place in its plans.

unity and coordination to the allied high command in the southwest Pacific.

Australians Cheered

Australians were cheered by the arrival of Lieut. Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey to become commander-in-chief of the allied land forces in Australia and also by the return of a portion of Australian imperial forces from the middle east to help defend the commonwealth and assist with the ultimate counter offensive against the Japanese.

In New Delhi, Sir Stafford Cripps announced that the text of the British proposals for solving the India question would be released for publication Monday as he planned new conferences with Indian leaders.

Sir Stafford, British lord privy seal and government leader in the House of Commons, said his talk yesterday with Mohandas K. Gandhi was "extremely helpful," although he refused to divulge the reaction of the famous Nationalist Congress party leader to his proposals.

In South America, Brazil continued its assault on axis espionage and sabotage activity with new startling developments. Sweden-born Niels Christensen admitted to police that he was a Nazi agent, sent to South America "to organize Brazil, then proceed to the United States and do likewise," and Gen. Manoel Rabello, a supreme military court judge, declared that Japan could muster an army of 30,000 men in Brazil following systematic landings of men and munitions.

In a joint broadcast, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and Prime Minister Gen. Jan Christian Smuts of the Union of South Africa predicted a United Nations victory and thriving democracies after the war.
